3. One paragraph explanation per platform.
    a. Platform chosen and description, what it is and what it does.
    b. Platform audience, who is going to see, and count
    c. Use case for that platform, what will we do there

LinkedIn is the world's dominant professional networking and career development platform. It functions as a digital meeting space for businesses, employees, and industry thought leaders. Its primary purpose for businesses is B2B lead generation, talent acquisition, and establishing corporate credibility through professional content. LinkedIn is dominated by professionals, with approximately 1.1 billion members globally. The key demographic is 25-54 years old, with over 52% of users holding a college degree and a significant portion belonging to high-income households. This audience is actively looking for business solutions and industry news. We will post case studies showcasing how unique 3D cards helped a sales team close a deal or a specific brand stand out at a conference. We will run targeted ad campaigns directed at specific job titles (e.g., "Chief Marketing Officer," "VP of Sales") within key industries like tech, manufacturing, or healthcare to capture bulk corporate orders and establish REDESIGN3D Cards as an innovative B2B supplier.

Instagram is a mobile social media platform centered on sharing photos and videos. This platform also has a very powerful algorithm for ads. It is a powerful tool for visual branding, product discovery, and building a community. Its algorithms prioritize engaging, high quality, and interactive content. Instagram boasts over 2 billion monthly active users globally. The platform's core demographic is mostly young adults, with 60% of users aged 18 to 34. For B2B, Instagram generates high engagement and 61% of social users turn to the platform to find their next purchase, making it a likely profitable channel for visual product discovery and brand storytelling. We will use Instagram primarily for brand building, awareness, and driving traffic to our main e-commerce channels. We will create short videos showing the 3D printing process, macro shots of the finished cards highlighting texture and design. This visual content will build excitement, attract creative professionals, and leverage hashtags to reach architects, designers, and marketers who value aesthetics.

As of 2025, Facebook remains ostensibly the largest social network in the United States, with over 3 billion monthly active users worldwide and more than 175 million daily US users. To frame that into perspective, approximately 37.5% of the world's 8 billion people use Facebook monthly. While younger audiences increasingly favor Instagram or TikTok as their preferred social media platform, Facebook continues to dominate among adults aged 25 to 55, particularly business owners, professionals, and local communities. Facebook is innately built around interaction and trust. It's not just for posts, but rather a full ecosystem with business pages, reviews, messaging, a marketplace, and community groups that make it easier for brands to form genuine relationships with people rather than just advertise to them. For REDESIGN3D, Facebook coupled with Instagram, will be our community and outreach. It's where we'll share updates, post successful customer stories and reviews, and potentially post behind the scenes photos or short clips of 3D printing. We'll also respond to post replies and messages directly to foster a community and get people involved. Over time, this will build familiarity and trust for our business and eventually people will start recognizing us as a real local brand rather than just an online company as well.

TikTok is another platform where people can post short videos that would allow other users to interact with and see them with a wide audience. TikTok is a famous platform that people use to interact with others and spread the news, and such. The platform has grown through the years and now about 1.99 billion people use it today. They use it for business, to tell a story, share news, and sell products. This app has helped many brands today to share throughout the world to many people which has increased their sales. The TikTok audience is mostly users from young, like 16 and up. But, through time, they are growing slowly, reaching other age groups as time goes on. This platform engages with the audience through entertainment and brings more people closer. We will use TikTok to help spread our business throughout the world. By creating videos of how we work, some reviews of our work, and some designs of ours that we have created and have sold. We can also use this to help bring them to our other sites from LinkedIn, Facebook, and Instagram. This will expand our brand to other age groups instead of just one.
